RELIVING THE PAST (II)

THE VALUE OF STORIES

Sent by the Tzemach Tzedek to Ruzhin to take care of a public matter, the chossid and gaon Reb Aizik Homiler used the opportunity to observe the ways of the Ruzhiner chassidim and of their Rebbe, the tzaddik Reb Yisroel. At that time, two chassidim came to Ruzhin to receive the Rebbe's haskama for seforim they had written. One was filled with chiddushei Torah and the other recounted sippurim of tzaddikim and notable chassidim. The Rebbe instructed that part of each sefer be read aloud. After sitting in dveikus for some time, he proceeded to praise the telling of sippurei tzaddikim, an activity in this world that arouses echoes in the chambers of tzaddikim in Olam HaBa, and then delivered a pilpul on some of the chiddushei Torah that appeared in the first sefer. Having done that, he instructed his gabbai to write haskamos for the seforim, first for the sippurim and then for the chiddushim.

Reb Aizik was impressed with the tzaddik's pilpul on the second sefer, but was puzzled by the precedence he had given to the sippurei tzaddikim. A few days later, at a Rosh Chodesh seuda, the tzaddik suddenly said, "This gaon is surprised at the priority I gave to the sippurim. In fact, this was addressed long ago by Rashi, who asks why the Torah begins with the story of the Avos, before listing the mitzvos. This is because the sippurim tell us about the greatness of HaShem's involvement in the world."

Turning to Reb Aizik, he concluded, "I followed the same order the Torah used."

(אג"ק מוהרי"צ ח"ו ע' עו)

The Rambam writes that speaking highly of the noble qualities of tzaddikim is beneficial, for it encourages one's listeners to want to follow their ways. Rabbeinu Yonah writes that by praising righteous tzaddikim one is praising HaShem, and doing so also brings out the good within the speaker.

SIPPURIM FOR EVERYONE

The Friediker Rebbe related: "It was a Shabbos afternoon in תרנ"ו (1896). After my father finished davening, he went to the home of his mother, Rebbetzin Rivkah, to make Kiddush. There, my father asked his mother, "Do you recall how the picture of the Alter Rebbe was brought to the Tzemach Tzedek and what he said about it?"

"Sure," she replied, "I remember it clearly."

My father then asked her to tell it to me, so that I would hear it from a first source. My grandmother readily agreed, and turning to me she said, "Come at a calmer time and I will tell it to you."

She then added, "At one Seder I heard my father-in-law, the Tzemach Tzedek, say: 'Mitzva lesaper biyetzias Mitzrayim' - by telling sippurim we can get out of Mitzrayim. 'Ve'afilu kulanu chachomim u'nevonim veyodim' - even a person who is a true Chabadnik (meaning a chossid steeped in the insights of Chassidus) is obligated to tell chassidische sippurim, for these will take him out of his Mitzrayim (that is, out of his ruchniyusdike limitations)."

My grandmother concluded, "Since then, I make a point of recounting sippurim only when I'm completely focused."

CONSIDER

Are stories a means to an end or an end themselves?

Why can't the same benefits be acquired through learning Chassidus?

In the year תרס"ג (1903), the Rebbe Rashab told his son, the Friediker Rebbe, "For a long time I have been complaining at the Ohel of my father, the Rebbe Maharash, about my lack of participation in chassidische farbrengens, as a result of spending my time catering to the cause and avoda of Chassidus. I asked to receive this as a gift, and my father agreed. From then on, I began to hear sippurim at nighttime visions."

Later on, the Friediker Rebbe said, "From that time on, I heard numerous stories from my father, the Rebbe Rashab, but I wouldn't ask where he had heard them or when he had heard them."

(סה"ש תש"ה ע' 24)

SPECIAL STORIES

Before the Alter Rebbe relayed a Torah of the Baal Shem Tov, he would say, "The words of Torah from 'the Zeide' (as he called the Baal Shem Tov) are a segula to increase one's understanding and yiras Shamayim, and the stories of 'the Zeide' are a segula for long life and abundant parnasa."

When the Tzemach Tzedek's daughter once fell ill with high fever, he suggested that someone read her stories of the Baal Shem Tov, for they are a superb segula to heal fever.

(לקוטי דיבורים ח"א ע' 508, רשימו"ד החדש ע' 135)

The Rebbe Maharash once said: "People say that relating a story of the Baal Shem Tov on Motzaei Shabbos is a segula for parnasa. The truth is that these three points are not necessarily so - lav davka. It does not necessarily have to be about the Baal Shem Tov - it can be about any tzaddik; and it is not only applicable on Motzaei Shabbos - it can be at any time; and the segula is not only for parnasa - but for all good things as well."

(רשימו"ד החדש ע' 211, וראה שמו"ס ח"א ע' 4)

Rebbetzin Rivkah related: "In תר"ט (1849), when I was newly married, my father-in-law, the Tzemach Tzedek, called in all his daughters-in-law who lived in Lubavitch and instructed them to gather every Motzaei Shabbos and relate a sippur of the holy Baal Shem Tov. We asked whether it was enough to just mention the Baal Shem Tov's name. My father-in-law replied, 'Definitely - a story!'

After that, every Motzaei Shabbos, one of the daughters-in-law would visit the Tzemach Tzedek, where she would hear a story of the Baal Shem Tov, and this she would then share with the rest of us."

(סה"ש ת"ש ע' 173)

ICE CREAM CONE

I am eating on a cone. Do I make a bracha on the ice cream, the cone or both?

When one eats two foods that are mixed together, one makes a bracha on the primary (ikar) food and thereby does not need to make a bracha on the secondary (tafel) one. If both foods are primary, the food that is the majority is considered the ikar. Mezonos ingredients, however, are considered the ikar, even when they are the minority, unless the grain is only there for binding or color and not taste.<sup>1</sup>

When one food is eaten only to service the other – e.g. cereal and milk (see issue 343) where one would not eat the milk without the cereal, or crackers only to serve as a spoon for chummus – the bracha is made on the primary one and not on the second one, even if it is hamotzi.<sup>2</sup>

If, however, one has an interest in the milk or cracker – or one continues eating it by itself afterwards on its own right – then one makes a bracha on it.<sup>3</sup> Thus, croutons or mandelach in a soup or salad don't become nullified and retain their own bracha. Since the bracha on the croutons sometimes might cover the soup or salad, and one cannot recite a shehakol or ha'adama afterwards, one should make the bracha on the soup or salad first and then on the croutons.<sup>4</sup>

What about an ice cream cone?

A regular cone is there just to hold the ice cream and people only eat it because of the ice cream. Thus, the shehakol on the ice cream covers the cone, even if one eats a little bit of it on its own.<sup>5</sup>

Regarding a sugar cone poskim debate whether it has its own entity and requires its own bracha, or perhaps not, since one still wouldn't eat the cone without the ice cream. The Alter Rebbe seems to side with the latter option.<sup>6</sup> Thus, one should first make a mezonos on a piece of the cone and then recite a shehakol on the ice cream. The mezonos isn't an unnecessary bracha since even if one may cover the cone with the shehakol, one is allowed – and it is praiseworthy – to make its specifically designated bracha of mezonos beforehand.<sup>7</sup>

Ice cream sandwiches are either shehakol if one is only interested in the ice cream, or mezonos and then shehakol if one is interested in the cake as well.<sup>8</sup>

THE SFAS EMES

Reb Yehuda Aryeh Leib Alter was the third Rebbe in the Ger dynasty, and under his leadership, the Chassidus of Ger flourished, becoming the stronghold of Chassidus in all of Poland. He became the Rebbe at the age of 23, after the passing of his grandfather the Chidushei Harim. He is known by the title of his sefer "Sfas Emes", which contains perushim on the Torah and Shas. He passed away at the young age of 58, on the 5th of Shvat, תרס"ה (1905) and is buried in Ger.

missed out on the admonishment of my grandfather..."

A Rebbe came to visit the Sfas Emes, and as they parted, the Rebbe expressed his hope that there should always be an ahava rabba (great love) between them. The Sfas Emes responded with a smile, "Besides for ahava rabba, we should also wish for an ahavas olam (literally: a love of the world); for often, there can be a great love between two Rebbes, yet among their chassidim there is no peace..."

When the Sfas Emes was young, he and his friend once spent the whole night learning, and only at daybreak did they go to sleep. The following day, the Sfas Emes arrived a bit late to his learning session, and his grandfather reprimanded him. All the while, he sat listening without saying a word. When his friend asked him why he had not told his grandfather that he had stayed up late to learn, the Sfas Emes said, "Yes, but then I would have

In the Shul of the Sfas Emes, two daily minyanim for shachris took place successively. When the second minyan would begin to daven, the mispalelim from the first would stay to talk. When word of this reached the Sfas Emes, he rescheduled the minyanim so that the first group would finish socializing before the second minyan would begin.

A Moment with The Rebbe

SEND THE NAMES

Mivtza Tefillin began just before the Six Day War, as a means to ensure safety and security in the Holy Land. However, following the miraculous victory, the Rebbe insisted that the activities continue with renewed strength, capitalizing on the wave of inspiration felt by all.

Tefillin? How many are involved? How many hours collectively? Send the names of the participants in an express letter."

The telegram made waves. Anash threw themselves into the mivtza with renewed vigor.

A few weeks after the war, an express telegram was delivered to Tzeirei Chabad of Yerushalayim from Chabad-Lubavitch headquarters in New York.

The next day, Reb Tuvya Bloi reported to the Rebbe, "We have arranged chain phone calls and house visits. We extended the shifts, from eight hours a day to fourteen hours. Please find enclosed a list of Anash who committed their time."

"Is anything happening with Anash of Yerushalayim regarding Mivtza
